Nana: Yeah, that's a good idea! What day is his birthday?

Sachiko: It's on October 12. Should we plan him a (①) party? Of course, we shouldn't tell him about the party. I think that would be a lot of fun, don't you agree?

Nana: Hiro would be glad. We had a (①) party for his brother last year and Hiro said to his mom that he would like it, too.

Sachiko: Ok, let's throw a (①) birthday party! Where should we have the party?

Nana: I can ask my parents if they would allow me to have it at my house. We have a large living room, so a lot of people can fit comfortably.

Sachiko: Perfect! I can make ②the birthday cake. Should I make a chocolate, vanilla, or strawberry cake?

Nana: I like chocolate cake! But Hiro's favorite flavor is vanilla.

Sachiko: I like chocolate cake, too, but I think we should make Hiro's favorite flavor.

Nana: Sounds good! ③What (decorations / we / of / prepare / should / kind) for the party? I have ocean-themed decorations, Dragon Ball Z decorations, and Harry Potter decorations.

Sachiko: Hiro likes Dragon Ball Z and Harry Potter. Do you know which he likes more?

Nana: I have more Harry Potter decorations than the other themes. So, I think we should use Harry Potter-themed ones. Can you make a Harry Potter-themed cake?

Sachiko: Yes, I can make a cake with a broomstick on top of it with a lightning bolt! I like ④this idea! (⑤) should we invite?

Nana: Hiro has a lot of friends, but his closest friends are Taro, Toshi, Akira and Aoi.

Sachiko: We should invite all of them, but I heard Akira is sick. ⑥Do you think we should still invite him?

Nana: Yes. If he feels better, then he can come.

Sachiko: I forgot to ask; how old will Hiro be?

Nana: He will turn sixteen years old. He's one year older than me!

Sachiko: Oh, I thought he was turning the same age as me, but I'm one year older than Hiro!

American Food

On the last day of summer, Manami said goodbye to her family at Narita Airport. ①Her parents cried because she said goodbye. Her mother said, “Please be safe and call us often!” Manami nodded and began to cry. Her parents smiled and waved as she walked to the ticketing area. She was about to begin a new adventure in America as an exchange student.

Manami got on the airplane and found her seat. When the plane took off, she fell asleep and began to dream about ②delicious American food. She dreamed of hamburgers dancing into her mouth while fried chicken flew above her. She suddenly woke up and realized the plane landed in Los Angeles, California.

She hurried through airport security and was excited to meet her host family. When she walked through the airport to the luggage claim, she saw a family with a large sign that said, “Manami, welcome to our family!” ③Manami greeted them politely with a (あ), but the family gave her a (い). She felt uncomfortable at first, but after a moment she embraced them back. The host mother said, “I made you my family’s favorite meal using my grandmother’s recipe. Do you like spicy food?” Manami smiled and said, “④_____” Her host mother laughed and said, “Good.”

On the car ride home, Manami thought about what kind of meal her host mother made. Did she make pizza, or hotdogs, or maybe hamburgers?! Her stomach made a noise and she wanted to eat right away.

The door to her host family’s home opened and she could smell peppers, garlic, and lime. It was not a familiar smell for her. She wondered what kind of meal her host family prepared. She put her suitcase in her new bedroom, washed her hands, and ran to the dining room table. Her host father said “Manami, please take a seat here.” She nodded.

Her host mother brought out the food, but it was unfamiliar to her. She looked at her food. There were two items that looked like harumaki with a red sauce and cheese on top. She was nervous to try the food. Her host mother said, “Go on, try it. I think you will like it!” Manami gathered her courage and cut into the food that looked like harumaki and meat came out of it. She ⑤took a () bite. Her host family watched her while she was eating. Manami ate her food and smiled. “Wow, ⑥I’ve never eaten anything like this before! What is it?” Manami said. Her host mother answered, “Oh, I am so happy you like the food. They are called enchiladas. My grandmother made them for my sister and me. My family is from Mexico.” Her host father added, “⑦One way we celebrate our culture is by making food from our family’s home country. We hope you can teach us how to make Japanese food!”

Manami was surprised to learn that there are more types of food in ⑧() than only hamburgers. She learned that people bring food from many other countries, like her host family.
